Exciting News SME Members!

President Obama is scheduled to speak on the importance of training and preparing our workforce to compete for manufacturing jobs across the nation at 11:30 a.m. ET on the White House Live channel — whitehouse.gov/live.

SME's Executive Director/CEO Mark Tomlinson, along with SME Director Dean Bartles and SME Education Foundation Director/CEO Bart Aslin, will be with President Obama when the announcement is made. SME is involved in the program and will be supporting the government initiative to fill the pipeline with skilled workers in manufacturing. In addition, the Society will be working in collaboration with the Manufacturing Institute at NAM and others moving forward.

It's a great time to be in manufacturing!
